Thoughts and comment

Are you too busy to have your cholesterol checked? Or is the service too expensive? That could be true if your only choice is a crowded lab, or you lack health insurance.

It most definitely is not true for anyone licensed to work on the backstretch in Maryland.

Health Fairs, sponsored in part by the MTHA (see notice at the top of this page), offer free screening services to all Maryland backstretch employees.

This is in addition to the Backstretch Health Center at Laurel Park, staffed two mornings each week by Harry M. Harris,

M.D. The Health Center is open from 9 a.m. to noon, Tuesdays and Saturdays, in the track kitchen building.

Both the Health Fairs and Center have improved the quality of life, and also saved the lives, of many people while helping to provide the kind of healthy work force that is so vital to the industry.

Lawmakers approve bill to guarantee 146 days of live racing annually through 2013

During the 2011 session of the Maryland General Assembly, which adjourned on April 11, state lawmakers passed a bill that, among other things, guarantees at least 146 days of live Thoroughbred racing annually through the end of 2013.

House Bill 1039, offered by the Administration, passed the House on a vote of 106-28, and was approved by a margin of 40-5 in the Senate.

"Although it is not ideal from our perspective, it does give us an additional two years," commented MTHA President Richard Hoffberger.

Lobbyists for both the governor and Penn Gaming secured Senate amendments requiring the Thoroughbred industry to reach an agreement with Rosecroft Raceway regarding simulcasting of Thoroughbred races.

As much as $3 million annually in slots revenue allocated for race track improvements is redirected to offset the Maryland Jockey Club's operating expenses in 2012 and 2013.

The bill also requires that the Thoroughbred racing industry submit by December 1 a business plan that would stimulate racing to survive and thrive without slots.

Race-day medication looms as major national issue

Medication has come to the forefront of a national debate, with The Jockey Club calling for a five-year plan to eliminate the only remaining race-day medications (Lasix and adjunct bleeder medications).

The Racing Medication and Testing Consortium will join the National Thoroughbred Racing Association and American Association of Equine Practitioners in organizing an international summit on June 13 and 14 in New York City to address race-day medication.

The Thoroughbred Horsemen's Association, on behalf of its member organizations, which include the MTHA, has stated its opposition to these proposed changes.

The Jockey Club launches “Thoroughbred Connect”

The Jockey Club has launched Thoroughbred Connect™, a free online service designed to assist with placement of Thoroughbreds at the end of their racing or breeding careers.

A component of The Jockey Club's Interactive Registration™, Thoroughbred Connect enables Registry customers to express their willingness to be contacted by the possessor of a horse in the event the horse is in need of placement. Those interested in providing assistance or aftercare have the ability to attach their name and contact information to the electronic records of Thoroughbreds within The Jockey Club's database using Thoroughbred Connect.

Similarly, a person who is seeking placement for a Thoroughbred in his possession can log into Thoroughbred Connect and request the contact information attached to the horse. The possessor of the horse may then contact that prospective owner directly to perform due diligence and discuss potential arrangements to transfer the horse. To access this service, go to www.thoroughbredconnect.com.

Anne Arundel slots site off the table until 2012

After promising to have a temporary casino up and running at the Arundel Mills mall site by the end of 2011—a prospect that appealed to many voters in last November's referendum—the casino developer has revised those projections.

The Cordish Co. has announced that it will open its casino in stages, beginning next June with 2,750 machines. Cordish plans to have the entire 4,750-machine project completed by October 2012.

The prolonged schedule will cost the racing industry, as well as the state, many millions in additional slots revenue.

Rick Abbruzzese, a spokesman for Gov. Martin O'Malley, told The Baltimore Sun that officials are “still working to determine the broader effects of the delay.”

As the Sun noted: “While Arundel slots will be delayed, Baltimore City can move forward in its own lengthy battle to open a slots casino. A company that had been rejected in a bid to develop slots in Baltimore dropped a legal challenge, clearing the way for the city to seek a new developer for a 17-acre site south of the stadiums.”

Md.-bred Safely Kept named to Hall of Fame

Safely Kept, the Maryland-bred filly who won the Eclipse Award as the nation's champion sprinter in 1989 and captured the Grade 1 Breeders' Cup Sprint the following year, has been selected for the racing Hall of Fame.

Bred by David and JoAnn Hayden, Safely Kept launched her career for the Haydens and trainer Carlos Garcia before being sold to Jayeff B Stable and Richard Santulli and sent to trainer Alan Goldberg.

A foal of 1986, by Horatius—Safely Home, by Winning Hit, she raced for four years, won 24 of 31 starts and amassed $2,194,206.

Induction will take place in August in Saratoga Springs, N.Y.
